
Today is Army Day. Nevada City is joining with other communities of the nation in the observance of the day, which marks the 25th anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the First World War.

Every community in the country today has its quota of men in the Army. Nevada City fittingly has prepared a program to commemorate Army Day and Army Men.

Mayor Ben Hall has called upon every member of Nevada City's Civilian Defense organization to participate in a parade from the City Hall to the Elementary School, where the patriotic exercises will be held. The march to the Elementary School will start at 7 o'clock. The local high school band will lead the procession and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will participate.

The patriotic program at the Elementary School will include an address by Judge George L. Jones. Appropriate music will be presented by the high school band and chorus.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company "House of Magic" program will be held in conjunction with the Army Day services.

Mayor Hall points out it is the patriotic duty of all citnzens of this country to attend some Army Day observance and urges all residents of this community to participate in the event here.

American soldiers this year have brand new headgear to match their sisters' latest spring finery. The new helmet, just now being issued gives greater protection than the old style flat "tin hats" of 1918. The new type helmets are illustrated above.

Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

In the Atlantic, disturbing and catastrophic as the U-boat assault on American shipping is, it would really appear that huge convoys are going forward regularly to Great Britain. The Axis apparently has not enough U-boats to attack both American shipping and the convoy system across the Atlantic at the same time. It is a comfort to know that about twenty of these under-sea scourges have been sunk while engaged in forays against U. S. shipping. The toll they have taken, approximaterly 100 cargo carriers of various kinds, is serious, and if long continued might be critical, but probably the twenty U-boats dispatched to the bottom are worth about twice the freighter tonnage sunk, and the loss of life has probably been less than aboard the subs.

We have a strong hunch that Hitler is proving himself just a little altruristic in his sub raid against American shipping. We suspect he is trying to enrourage the Jap effort by scaring Americans, North and South of the equator, and thereby drawing our naval forces to the coasts of North and South America. We suspect that our naval leaders refuse to rise to this bait and that accounts for the large losses in freight steamers plying the Atlantic coasts and in the Caribean. The war ships attending convoys to Great Britain are still successfully protecting them, and the tonnage crossing over to the British constantly increasing. And that is most important, for Great Britain is now the largest military, naval and air base in the world. From it may issue at any moment a blow at the Axis that will be decisive in this war. If it does not issue, and a second front is not established against Hitler, to put it mildly, we shall be very much disappointed in our British partner and ally in the war.

In the Pacific we feel reasonably certain that the tide has turned. The defense of Australia, it may confidently be expected, will soon turn to an offense against the Jap holdings in the East Indies. It is very apparent that the Japs are beginning to run short of airpower. Hitler probably will have no planes to spare from his Russian and Lybian fronts, not to mention his defense of the Low Countries and Northern France, and so the Japs will have to make shift with the planes they now have. It is quite apparent even to lay observers that to attain air supremacy on the Burma front the Japs have robbed their forces in the East Indies, and that is primarily the reason General McArthur is now making such successful raids on Timor and New Guinea islands. To establish air bases some where on these islands and begin a continuous hammering on areas held by the Japs, is probably next

SEVEN NEVADA CITYANS HELD BY JAPANESE

Orlando McCraney, manager of the Sacramento district office of the War Production Board's contract distribution division, today identified seven former Nevada City mining men as on the list of 1,500 American citizens held by the Japanese in Manila.

McCraney was chief engineer for a gold mine on Lahuy Island in the Philippines until he returned to his Nevada City home last fall. He was planning on returning to the islands when the war broke out in December.

Those identified by McCraney are:

A. F. Duggleby, vice president and consulting engineer for the Benguet Consolidated and Balatoc Mining Companies and formerly with the Newmont Mining Company of Nevada City, where his wife and son reside.

Gordon Bettles, general superintendent and mining engineer for the mine with which McCraney was connected on Lahuy Island. Bettles' wife and three daughters live in Nevada City.

W. L. Carter and wife, formerly of Nevada City. Carter was surface fore man for the Balatoc Mining Company. He is a brother of George Carter, former Nevada County sheriff.

V. V. Clark, mining engineer, formerly associated with dredging operations near Oroville, Butte County, Marysville, Yuba County, and Natomas, Sacramento County.

Lamar J. Fleming, superintendent of the Balatoc mine and formerly connected with mining ventures in Nevada County. Mrs. Fleming lives in Nevada City.

R. L. Lile and wife. who are well known in Nevada County where Lile was associated with several mining operations. He was superintendent of two mines in the Philippines.

J. B. Stapler and wife and daughter, Stapler, who formerly was associated with the Empire Mine in Grass Valley, was manager for the southern division of one of the largest mining concerns in the Philippines.

BOREE WILL BE ROTARY SPEAKER

J. J. Boree, retired United States Army Brig. Gen. and at the present time liason officer for the state department of motor vehicles, will be the Rotary Club speaker at the National Hotel here Thursday noon.

Boree recently spoke at the Nevada-Sierra Peace Officers meeting here and his talk was acclaimed by those who heard him. H. F. Sogfe is chairman of Thursday's meeting of the Rotary and he received word Saturday that Boree would be happy to address the local Rotarians.

VICTORY GARDENS

The Nevada City Garden Club, it is announced by the president, Mrs. Paul Kemper, will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at her home. The theme will again be Victory Gardens. Members will read papers on various phases of well planned war gardens.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Rev. and Mrs. David Ralston today attended the Methodist ministers convention in Olive Hurst. Rev. Ralston is president of the ministers association.

Oliver Langdon, former pastor here, was to be a speaker at the conclave.

Presence Of All Members Requested At Chamber Of Commerce Meeting

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce will elect a board of directors at tomorrow night's meeting at the Shamrock Cafe here. The meeting was originally scheduled tonight but because of the Army Day program it was decided to hold it tomorrow night.

A full attendance of members is urged by Secretary H. F. Sofge, who said the meeting is of great importance to the future progress of the city.

"With the inauguration of construction at the cantonment," Sofge stated, "our city will be called upon to house many of the worker's families. Even at this early date several families have moved in—some have purchased homes, some have rented. Many inquiries have been received by your secretary regarding housing, living conditions, etc., from out of town persons. To properly take care of these inquiries a housing survey has been made and the data is now on file at the Chamber of Commerce.

"To make this data available to those interested, your secretary has made arrangements with the Hotel Marysville for desk space in the lobby. In the near future he will spend at least a week there contacting home seekers and giving them information regarding our city, its housing opportunities, climate, churches, schools, recreational facilities, etc. By being on the ground an immediate answer can be given to any question asked by the prospective home seeker.

"At tomorrow's meeting you will elect a Board of Directors to serve for the ensuing year. If you have in mind some one other than appears upon the ballot, you can write his name in the blank space provided for that purpose. You, as a stockholder in this organization, should attend this meeting. The Chamber's importance at this time cannot be overestimated. We have lost through enlistments in the armed forces of our country, and the taking of jobs in defense work, a great many citizens. This has resulted in a slow-down of business, and to offset this condition your Chamber is using every available means to bring more families here. This can and will be done with your cooperation.

"As was done last year coffee and doughnuts will be served. Come out and dunk with us. Bring your lady with you if you wish. If you are not a regular attendant at or meetings surely one evening in the entire year will not be amiss."

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Jeannette Hartman suffered minor injuries at 9 p. m. last night when automobiles driven by David Hartman and Walter Parrish, both of Grass Valley, collided one mile south of Grass Valley on the Auburn Highway. The accident was investigated by the California Highway Patrol.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Legg of Berkeley spent the Easter weekend with Mr. and Mrs. George Legg.

Geraldean Baker Weds P. Angove Here Yesterday

At an impressive service in the beautiully decorated Methodist Church here yesterday afternoon, A. Geraldean Baker of Grass Valley became the Easter bride of Phil J. Angove of Nevada City.

The wedding was erformed by Rev. David Ralston and was witnessed by approximately 50 relatives and close friends of the popular couple.

The bride was attended by her sister, Sylvia Jean Baker. Everett Angove, brother of the bridegroom, acted as the best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in Grass Valley, where the couple are to make their home until Phil leaves for military service.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Baker of Grass Valley. She is employed at the Moran Pharmacy in Grass Valley. The former Miss Baker graduated from the Grass Valley High School and later attended Sacramento Junior College.

Angove is the son of Ernest Angove of this city. He is one of the most popular youths of this city, attending the local high school and later the Placer Junior College. He is at present in the safety and first aid department at the Idaho-Maryland Mine. Angove intends to enlist for military service in May or June. Yesterday's bridegroom for the past several years has been president of the local Epworth League and has been active in Methodist Church work here.

Meeting Of War Savings Committee Postponed To April 8

The Nevada City War Savings committee meeting scheduled for this evening has been postponed until Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock because of various other meetings to be held tonight. Mrs. Paul Kemper, chairman, urges all members to be present as she now has information pertaining to the cancass to be made in the near future. Mr. A. C. Gaines, field representative of the Treasury Department has spent several days in Nevada County assisting to install the payroll allotment plan in various mines and organizations. This plan is to be further discussed Wednesday evening.

Caught in the Riffles

Herb Caen, S. F. columnist, in apoligizing to the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce for the bad reflection cast upon this city in a recent item, says:

"The Nevada City C. of C. contradicts this dept.'s recent item by noting that real estate prices there are going up, not down; reason, say they, is that so many Bay Region citizens have gone to Nevada City in the hope of 'finding homes in a peaceful community.'

Thanks!"

Believe it or not, Secretary H. F. Sofge of the local Chamber of Commerce, is even able to do more work than usual although his right arm is in a sling from an injury suffered in a fall.

Why is that? Because he has the untiring assistance of his wife.

Rev. David Ralston, who yesterday tied the knot uniting Phil Angove of this city and Aletha Geraldean Baker of Grass Valley, was originally to have performed the ceremony in the G. V. Methodist Church.

But the wedding plans were changed and the ceremony held in the church here because the Grass Valley Methodist pastor objected to the local minister occupying his pulpit!

George Strach, local youth who joined the Navy, is a real booster for that branch of the service. Strach writes from Hawaii, where he is stationed, urging Nevada City young men to get into the Navy. Strach is now a machinist mate, showing he hasn't been wasting any time since joining the service. The young machinist is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Strach of this city.

Big city taxi operators are so worried about the shortage of male taxi drivers they are seriously considering putting women to work.

Nevada City already has a woman taxi driver. Salute Mrs. Bill Cuffman!

Douglas McArthur Evans, recent blessed arrival to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Evans, wasn't so named just because General Douglas McArthur happened to be the "Man of the Hour." Bob Evans could well have decided upon the battlefields of France in the World War I to name his second son Douglas McArthur, for America's No. 1 hero was well known to Evans in that war.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Martine have never attempted to conceal their animosity toward the Jehovah Witnesses, religious sect whose members refuse to salute the flag.

APRIL—25 YEARS AGO

This month of April, in 1917, was mighty exciting for Americans. On April 6th. we declared war on Germany. The Germans scoffed at us. We were wholly unprepared, they said which was true. But they told us our best would be too little and too late—as they are telling us now!

Yet just exactly one year, seven months and five days after April 6. 1917. the enemy surrendered before a gigantic host of hard-hitting Yanks. on November 11, 1918. Let's remember that in these times, when enemy propaganda tells us we've started with too lttle, too late. We're only into this war four months. Wait until one year, seven months and five days of it have passed; We did it before—we'll do it again.

GOLD MINING INDUSTRY IN LAST DITCH STAND

Under the leadership of State Senator Jesse M. Mayo of Angels Camp, a most successful gathering of mining men was held in Sacramento recently for the purpose of discussing the priority question as it relates to gold and silver mines.

The meeting was not a protest meeting against the recent lowering of the priority rating, but was rather a meeting of the minds in the industry to propose a plan by which the interests of the Mother Lode Gold mining area could properly be brought before the federal authorities in Washington.

There is no question but that the Mother Lode area, including the Grass Valley and Nevada City section. will suffer greatly if gold mining cannot continue. It is to be hoped that the government will recognize the seriousness of the situation and will. in some degree. lessen the restrictions.

Ghost towns will not help us win the war and if gold isn't needed now, as some say, to which this writer does not agree, gold will most certainly be needed to win the peace which is to follow.—Scoop Thurman in Colfax Record.

FROM FRYING PAN INTO FIRING LINE

"Out of the frying pan into the firing line" may be the next salvage campaign for American housewives.

Plans are under way, for a drive to salvage bacon fat and other greases left over from Mrs. America's daily stint in the kitchen—and pay her four cents a pound for the product.

Details of the proposed campaign are not perfected and officials warned housewives not to begin saving grease until the drive is formally announced.

As now outlined the campaign would be financed by soap manufacturers who have large government orders for glycerine needed in explosives. To make glycerine they must first make soap and supplies of imported oils have been cut by the war. Housewives would be urged to save frying pan grease, and sell it to retailers who would route it to soap industries.

The government would not figure directly in the campaign, it was said. except to give complete approval and possibly assist in publicizing it.

President Roosevelt wants an official name for this war. He says he wants a little help from the people in picking out an appropriate one.

World War II, the term most commonly applied to it, apparently isn't the one he wants. He's right, too, because it has the connotation of being a sort of offspring of the other one—an anti-climax, when in reality this one is so much bigger and so much nearer being truly world-wide that there is no comparison.

Since he's asking for entries, we make bold to suggest one:

Why not "The War of Two Worlds"—ours and Hitler's? Obviously, only one of them can survive.

THINKING OUT LOUD

To the man in the street, the lay observer, it would look very much as though the Japs were over-extended. That is, they have gobbled up more ports, islnds, peninsulas and cities, than they are equipped to defend with war ships and planes. We would not be at all surprised to find the Japs presently trying to consolidate their gains. Reinforcing their strong points with a view to withstanding siege. The inroads of submarines and bombing and torpedo planes, as soon as these are available in numbers, may wittle down the naval and transport strength of the Japs, before they can make the defenses impregnable.

It is still, on the surface, anybody's war, but there are so many unknown factors involved, such as supplies and replacements accessible to Huns and Japs, that even military experts differ on immediate developments. But the one question that vitally interests people everywhere, is the probable duration of the war. Just now, if as some commentators believe, the tide is turning, a much shorter war is indicated than had been generally forecast. Much depends on this summer's camaign in Russia, and the direction of the Japs turn in the war in the Pacific. But there are very definite signs of insufficient planes and ships for both members of the Axis.

Local Women Pass High In Test Following Classes In Combatting Gasses, Bombs

Instruction given here by Mrs. Breeden of the Women's Voluntary Service organizatin was entertaining as well as instructive. Many of her pupils did not take the final written examination. Others failed to make passing marks but on the whole the report shows that a clear understanding of the gasses and bombs was absorbed.

The following members were marked "A plus" with notation of excellence:

Mrs. B. M. Hobbie, Mrs. G. E. Mitchell, Mrs. R. Renfree, Mrs. Ethel White.

Other "A's": Mrs. Florence Bates, Mrs. W. S. Buffington, Mrs. Olive Shampie, Mrs. Forrest Burket, Mrs. Lloyd Geist, Mrs. Paul Kemer, Mrs. Hazel Long, Mrs. W. A. Nicholls, Mrs. Henry Sattler, Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. Russell Wilson.

"B's": Mrs. Wm. Belisle, Mrs. H. Draper, Mrs. L. Fleming, Mrs. E. H. Townsend, Miss Florence Vanberg.

Cerificates will be mailed from headquarters.

QUOTH THE RAVEN, "NEVERMORE"

Broadcast Over KJBS, March 26
Written by Harley M. Leete Jr.

A U. S. Navy task force,
Attacks two Jap-held isles.
Embarrassment and dark remorse,
Replace toothy Tokyo smiles.

The yellow man's gone far enough,
On wide-extended lines.
From here the going's very rough,
For imperialist's designs.

Our Navy raided Marcus, Wake,
Blew forts and boats to bits.
Jap confidence begins to break,
Beneath accurate bombing hits.

Of aircraft, we lost only two,
No boats were lost at all.
Jap propaganda coming through,
Is riding for a fall.

When they reported this last raid,
They quardupled all our losses.
Which shows how lies of truth are made,
By Tokyo's little bosses.

At their front door's a knocking,
Being heard at present date.
Uncle Sam their path is blocking,
And his knock's the voice of Fate.

It reminds us of a tale by Poe,
'Twas told in somber verse,
It went as Japanese fortunes go,
From fair, to bad, to worse.

The poem wasn't bad at all,
A shining masterpiece.
'Twas full of haunting, tragic call,
—Sad passions did release.

At the start, there came a rapping,
Upon a chamber door.
And a raven did that tapping,
And, at length, quoth "Nevermore!"

And so Japan, we come a knocking,
Upon your chamber door.
We and Fate your path our blocking,
And your password's "Nevermore!"

The manner of giving shows the character of the giver, more than the gift itself.—Lavater.

Take heed that ye do not your alms before men, to be seen of them: otherwise ye have no reward of your Father which is in heaven.—Jesus; Matthew 6:1

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

VERY OFTEN these days, I get to thinking about the soldier boys at camp. And the sailors, too.

What worries me is . . . what happens when they get a day off after working their heads off all week? They go to town . . . and what then?

What happens? The answer is . . . mostly nothing! Because most towns near army camps just don't have nearly enough entertainment facilities to take care of the soldiers on leave. So the boys just stand around, leaning against lampposts or sitting on doorsteps. And sometimes, the local townsfolk find themselves wondering what's changed the town . . . instead of pitching in to help the boys have a good time in decent surroundings.

In many towns, however, the situation is better. Many towns have nice, community places where a soldier can go sit down and "chew the fat" and enjoy some cake and milk, or maybe a good glass of beer. The boys like that. And they're not likely to get in trouble . . . because common sense tells you [illegible] wrong about a couple of glasses of beer.

There's another reason, too. The beer industry is cooperating with the army and with the law-enforcement officers to help keep the places where beer is sold, clean and decent. The brewers don't want their beer sold to soldiers in places where bad conditions exist . . . and they're right.

Seems to me that we Americans ought to get together and do everything we can to make things pleasant for the boys who are in training. They're doing their duty . . . maybe we have some duties, too, in this direction.

There are lots of ways of helping. We ought to support them all. All of us have our part to play in winning this war . . . and making life a little easier for the boys in camp is something we all can do something about.

TRAILER VAGABOND

By WARREN BAYLEY

This feature appears through the courtesy of O. K. Tire Weld Co. G. R. (Red) Jarrard, Hills Flat, Grass Valley, California.

Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

As you approach the executive city of Louisiana the first building that becomes visible in the distance is the State House built under the administration of Huey Long. It's a beautiful building, very unlike the state buildings of other states which cling to the architecture of giant domes and pillared corridors. Huey's state house is tall, slender and a thing of beauty.

I call it Huey's state house. Actually, of course it belongs to the state and its people. But it's pretty hard to disassociate Huey and the many improvements you find as you travel Lousiana. Free bridges span the rivers where heavy toll charges were the rule rather than the exception. You know Huey was the guiding light. Large signs hang at the entrance of the bridges to tell the world that this bridge was "Built under the administration of Huey P. Long." Roads, schools, and many other institutions also felt the effect of his guiding hand. Say what you will about him, the State of Louisiana has profited much because he was its governor and United States Senator.

Few men have been hated as badly or loved as much. He definitely was a showman of the first water. His "share the wealth" was not practical but it made him a god in the eyes of the poor. He was hated and mistrusted by the rich and the higher-ups in the political world. He asked no quarter from his enemies and evidently gave none. His methods were ruthless and to the extreme. He was a dictator in every sense of the word and like most dictators he accomplished some that was good and plenty that was bad. He died as he lived—in the thick of the battle.

Just what place in history Huey will occupy is hard to tell, but one thing is sure, he won't be forgotten in this generation. Today as I stopped to gaze at his monument an old man approached me with his hat in his hand. His clothes were the garb of a man in the lower brackets of life. His hair was white as snow. He later told he he was 83 years of age. For some 15 minutes he recited a poem describing the glory that was Huey Long's. The old fellow spends a few hours each day at this self-imposed task and no visitor leaves until he has finished his recieation. The pittance he gathers from the daily visitors is barely enough to keep body and soul together, yet he is happy in his work. Others will probably take up his task when he passes on.

Today Huey lies buried on the State Capitol grounds. Few governors have been given such honor but popular demand and Huey's political machine decreed he should have his final resting place near the State House he caused to be erected. The grounds are large and wonderfully landscaped. Huey rests near the center. A granite monument marks the spot, and atop the monument is a determined looking bronze statue of the Kingfish of Louisiana.

It is a beautiful place to spend eternity.

The following telegram has been received by Editor H. M. Leete from Congressman Harry L. Englebright regarding gold mining priorities:

"As a result number conference with officials War Production Board concerning priority ratings for gold mining it is evident there is no disposition to discontinue gold mining and the gold mining industry will receive same consideration and treatment as all other industries not engaged in essential war production work. Also that in localities and communities largely or wholly dependent upon gold mining for their welfare every consideration will be given to each individual community problem. Further the request for priorities from each individual mine in such localities will be appraised from standpoint of its individual needs. For several weeks have been in close consulatation with mining branch War Production Board which is headed by Doctor Wilbur A. Nelson and also representatives of California gold mining interests. City Council Authorizes Purchase Of $2,000 In National Defense Bonds

The business trancacted by the city council at its meeting here Thursday night included the authorization of the purchase of $2,000 in defense bonds, representing an investment of approximately $1 for each resident of the city.

The motion of the purchase of the bonds passed unanimously after Councilman Frank Davies made it.

The council boosted the salary of Water Collector Sam Hooper from $115 per month to $125 per month. Hooper's duties have magnified since the war started. He acts as clerk for the tire rationing board, and assists in much civilian defense work.

The council assured a committee no action will be taken on the city park question until the committee, headed by Judge George L. Jones submits its report and recommendations.

The dispaching of a telegram to Fred Searls, prominent native of this city, who is now a "Brain Man' for Donald Nelson, War Prodction head, was authorized by the council. The telegram read:

"Nevada City Council wishes to convey to you its gratification of your appointment to the responsible position and great public trust you now occupy. The city and county are indeed justly proud of you who have performed in harmony with the best tradition of the Searls family."

An amendment to Ordinance No. 217 was adopted by the council in that the following, Section 28 A, was added:

"Every person engaged in the business or occupation of soliciting or canvassing or taking orders for any goods, wares or merchandise, and not having a regular established place of business in the City of Nevada, or who is not an agent or representative of a regular established place of business in the City of Nevada, shall pay a license tax of $20 per quarter year, in advance. This section shall not apply to canvassers or solicitors of established wholesale dealers who shall canvass or solicit orders from established dealers only."

Councilman John R. Thomas attended the council meeting and praised the local trustees for investing in United States Savings Bonds to aid the war effort.

C. K. Heffren, coordinator of the Nevada County Civilian Defense Council, was also present at the meeting and told of the work being accomplished .

RIFFLES

the sect, they received one of the Jehovah Witness books, dedicated as follows:

"To Mr. and Mrs. Martine from Watchtowers."

Eugene Tucker has arrived safely in San Francisco, united with his wife, children, mother and brother, Bob, who is in the University of California Hospital suffering with a serious malady.

And don't think he didn't have a hard time getting back to this country!

Tucker, who has been stationed in South Africa for the Newmont Mining Company for the past several years, practically sat on a pier for weeks waiting for a boat bound for the United States. He finally secured passage and then, in mid-Atlantic the boat was torpedoed.

Tucker gallantly assisted a woman into a lifeboat before thinking of his own safety. The woman, during the 37 hours the lifeboat was tossed about on the ocean before a rescue ship arrived, gave birth o a child.

Immediately after arriving in a safe port, Tucker called his mother in Nevada City. He then took an airplane to San Francisco.

His family was overjoyed and Nevada Cityans were equally happy to learn his dash half way round the world to reach the bedside of his brother was successful.

Name Selected For Nevada-Yuba County Army Cantonment

Captain Franklin Fish, in charge of the Nevada-Yuba County army cantonment, has announced the name of Camp Beale has been been selected for the military base.

Captain Fish said the name was selected officially by the war department in honor of Brig. Gen. Edward Fitzgerald Beale, frontiersman who joined the army in 1845.

Beale served as superintendent of Indian affairs in California and Nevada after the Mexican war and from 1861 to 1866 he was surveyor general of California. Retiring to a ranch near Bakersfield, he was recalled to diplomatic service ten years later, serving as minister to Austria under President U. S. Grant. His death occurred in 1893.

Scheduled for completion in October, preliminary work on Camp Beale is proceeding at full speed, with large amounts of materials now being moved into the area. While the government has taken possession of a small portion on which first buildings will go up, assurances have been given that landowners will have to sell their lands.

SUNRISE SERVICES CANCELLED BUT MANY ATTEND CHURCH RITES

The weather forced the cancellation yesterday of the sunrise services at the Nevada City Airport but it failed to dampen the spirit of Easter worshippers, judging from the attendance at local churches.

Every seat was taken at the Episcopal Church for the special Easter service and a large attendance was noted at the St. Canice Catholic Church services.

Rev. David Ralston reported standing room was even at a premium at the Methodist Church morning services and there was a large attendance at the evening services.

SPEND EASTER HERE

Mr. and Mrs. John Merrifield and son, John, Jr., of Sacramento, spent Sunday with Rev. and Mrs. David Ralston here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lee Wallace of Sacramento came to Nevada City yesterday to visit with Rev. and Mrs. Ralston and to attend last night's Easter services.
